Cryptocurrency is encapsulated by one simple philosophy: It's about choice.

At Banks Lyon Jewellers, we want to enrich our customers who are already flocking to digital currencies with different options to deposit their digital stock.

With xMoney crypto payments, we accept a plethora of cryptocurrencies such as Bitcoin, Ethereum, and others as an official payment method for our stock of the world's most exclusive Watch & Jewellery brands.

HOW DO I PAY WITH CRYPTO?

Simply choose what you would like to buy with cryptocurrency and enquire with our friendly team via the product page, chat, email or by phone.

Once the amount payable in GBP is agreed, we will send you digital invoice from xMoney containing a QR code that will let you pay with any major cryptocurrency, from any wallet or exchange.

Once your payment is verified, your order will be processed as usual with our team and sent to you with registered and insured delivery.

WHAT IS XMONEY

xMoney is a digital payment blockchain platform that combines features of traditional online payment systems and blockchain technology in an attempt to offer the best solutions from both worlds. The company streamlines the exchange between merchants and consumers by leveraging the power of blockchain and making payments cheaper, faster and safer. Using this model, there is no need for massive operational costs or conversion fees.

xMoney makes the option of accepting and making cryptocurrency payments available to everyone who wants to venture outside of traditional finance. In addition, xMoney processes all the payments on-chain, while companies like PayPal are closed database systems that claim to process cryptocurrencies but don't operate on the blockchain itself.

WHAT IS THE REFUND POLICY WHEN PAYING WITH CRYPTOCURRENCY?

Your standard consumer rights apply.

When an agreement on a refund is reached, Banks Lyon will initiate the process and you will receive the agreed amount of the payment. The network fees will be subtracted from the final amount and the amount is transferred in crypto and corresponds to the agreed amount in fiat, converted using the exchange rate fixed at the time you provided the refund address.

The rates are obtained from one of xMoney's exchange providers (which may include Binance, Huobi, Uphold and others). The specific rates are highly variable depending on market conditions.

It is important to consider that If the value of your chosen crypto currency increases after your purchase, you may be refunded less crypto in return.

USING AN EXCHANGE TO PAY?

Tips for a successful payment when using an exchange:

Consider withdraw fees.

When withdrawing from an exchange, withdraw fees might be applied on the amount that you are withdrawing, please make sure that the final amount that you will be sending isn't less (due to the fee) than the one requested for the order, or it will result on an underpayment.

Always confirm the final value that it will be sent matches the one requested for the order, before proceeding with the withdraw.

Exchanges may take some time to process your withdraw.

When you try to pay through an exchange, your transaction may suffer additional delays. This could mean that your payment will not reach us in time. If we are not able to detect your transaction within 1 hour and confirm it within 2:30 hours, a refund will be automatically triggered.
